Lawmakers Kill Rent Measures

Action Is Taken When Federal Counsel Is Discussed at Parley at Albany

Signature Needed

Governor Is Expected to Sign Into Law War Councils

Albany, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—New York's legislature unexpectedly killed today all war-time rent control bills on the advice of the Federal government.

The legislature's action nullified assembly adoption yesterday of a measure admittedly drafted to safeguard local authority and "keep out a horde of federal officials."

Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat, New York city Republican and sponsor of the measure, explained that a representative of the Office of Price Administration conferred with state officials late yesterday and suggested state action be deferred.

"It was agreed at the conference," Moffat said, "that it would be better not to pass any rent control legislation at this time, but leave the field of rent control to the Federal government and handle the problems of local administration through the state war council."

A broad defense bill passed by the legislature yesterday expressly authorized the war council to work with Federal agencies on all price-fixing questions, Moffat added. Leaving rent control temporarily in the council's hands, he said would assure sufficient flexibility in state restrictions to meet changing Federal policies.

The Assembly voted 100 to 21 to permit Sunday sale of beer for off-premise consumption before 3 a. m. and after 1 p. m. and sent it to the Senate with another to control enemy aliens to surrender firearms to local police. The latter measure would cancel all firearms permits held by aliens.

Two Senate-approved proposals were passed and sent to the governor. One permits broadcasting companies to withhold their stock from aliens, and the other allows a state personal income tax deduction of $400 for each youth under 23 years enrolled in schools and colleges. The present maximum deduction age for dependents is 18.

The Assembly unanimously approved extension until March 15, 1943, of a committee headed by Republican Assemblyman Dutton S. Peterson, Schuylkill county, investigating advisability of releasing New York prison inmates for military service and their training in prisons for the armed forces or defense industries. The committee's appropriation would be increased from $300 to $2,000.

Albany, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Governor Lehman's expected prompt signature is all that is needed today to establish state and local war councils in New York with complete authority in attack, sabotage and other emergencies.

Mercy Ship Sought

Men of Bataan Would Get Help From Relatives in New Mexico

Albuquerque, N. M., April 15—A mercy ship loaded with food, clothing and medical supplies for the men of Bataan is sought by hundreds of sorrowing relatives of the New Mexico soldiers who battled so long on the beleaguered peninsula.

An estimated 600 mothers, fathers, sisters and brothers of the men in the 24th Coast Artillery (anti-aircraft) gathered last night and established the Bataan Relief Organization.

More than $300 was contributed before donors were asked to wait until a committee could be appointed to handle the funds.

The anti-aircraft regiment, formerly the 11th Cavalry, was comprised of more than 1,400 New Mexico National Guardsmen. State military authorities believed it to be the largest single group on Bataan from any one state. The regiment was feared trapped by the Japanese.

Russians Breach Nazi Line

Stockholm advises said Russian armies of the Ukraine have torn a gaping hole in the German lines 25 miles north of Kharkov (1) and are plunging forward in a great enveloping maneuver against the steel-producing center. The Germans said Russian assaults were continuing in the south, chiefly in the Donets basin and that a tank-led force of some 90,000 Red Troops had launched a new and violent attack on the central front west of Moscow (2). New York, April 15 (AP)—Seven enemy aliens—three Germans and four Italians—were taken into custody in a series of raids throughout Dutchess county last night.

Driver of Truck in Fatal Accident; May Ask Bail Be Fixed

Lawrence B. Perkins, 36, of 184 West 5th street, Oswego, charged by the police with criminal negligence in the operation of the trailer-truck that struck and fatally injured Mrs. Ida Quinn, wife of the Rev. Simeon T. Quinn of 72 West Union street, Monday night, waived examination and was held to day for the action of the grand jury.

Mr. Perkins was arrested after the trailer-truck was driving struck Mrs. Quinn and West Union street. When the case came up for a hearing Tuesday in police court it was adjourned until this morning.

Judge Matthew V. Cahill informed Mr. Perkins that he could apply to a higher court to have bail fixed if he so desired.

Daniel Gibbons of Springfield, Mass., charged with public intoxication, was given a suspended sentence provided he was out of the city within an hour.

"Efforts by state agencies to restrict news releases to legitimate, timely information are nullified by the fact that they are lost in the shuffle" when the morning mail arrives at the editor's desk with a foot-high stack of federal news matter," said a resolution adopted at a meeting of the state publicists.

Non-Military Goods Are Held in Port of New York, Says Welles

Former French Chief in Syria Will Get Promotion

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

Relations between pro-Nazi France and the United States verged on an open break today, and France's new role in the war assumed grave importance on the basis of German reports that the French army would be reorganized.

As a first step in the crisis of Washington-Vichy relations, the United States held up shipments of non-military supplies to French North Africa, it was officially announced.

Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles disclosed that two ships in New York harbor loaded with supplies for North Africa, which were about to sail, would be held in port.

Welles further announced that arrangements to send a Red Cross ship with milk and children's clothes to unoccupied France have been held in abeyance pending clarification of the situation in Vichy.

Advices reaching London quoted well-informed Berlin circles as saying that Gen. Henri Dentz, former French commander in Syria, would shortly receive one of the highest posts in the French army and would reorganize the army and the general staff in line with "the new policy of France."

Other major developments in the European war theatre included:

Russian front—Soviet dispatches said Red army troops had smashed through German first-line defenses guarding Bryansk, key Nazi base only 60 miles from the border of White Russia, and were now battling fiercely in the second line.

Bryansk lies 200 miles southwest of Moscow.

The Moscow news said that relatively heavy German counterattacks had cost the invaders 22,000 killed and several times that many wounded since April 1, and that the Germans had lost 466 planes in the first seven days of April, against 86 Soviet planes missing.

Heavy fighting continued to range on the Leningrad front, with a Red army bulletin reporting that 2,200 Germans were killed there within 48 hours.

Hitler's field headquarters said that German siege guns touched off big fires and explosions in Leningrad itself, and that "totally flooded territories" prevented land fighting on the southern (Ukraine) front.

Aerial warfare—British R. A. F. bombers, starting their second 24 hours of a non-stop air offensive over the continent, blasted the German-occupied coast where thousands of workers and Nazi soldiers are laboring feverishly to build new fortifications.

The R. A. F.'s daylight raids followed night attacks in which "very large" fires were left burning in the Ruhr industrial valley, and all-day attacks against occupied France.

Gubernatorial Campaign May Be Lengthened

Albany, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Lengthening of New York's fall gubernatorial campaign by five weeks became a likely prospect today.

The decision, backed by Republican majority legislators, was made by the party's state executive committee. The chief aim, members said, is to attempt to assure voting privileges to many thousands of state residents in the army or navy.

A bill providing for advancement of the political calendar was scheduled to be passed over probable Democratic opposition late this week. The measure was viewed by the minority legislators as an effort to cash in on the political adage that a longer election campaign favors the "outs."

The Republican executive committee's decision, reached after a five-hour conference ending last night, would set primary day August 11 instead of September 15, the last day for filing primary petitions, July 7 instead of August 11, and bring party state conventions to a close in late August instead of the last of September.

A flying shell fragment struck Mayer. "A few minutes later a

Fire Aboard Normandie Also Was Due to Lack of Supervision, Naval Group Finds

Washington, April 15 (AP)—A House naval subcommittee blamed "carelessness and lack of proper supervision" today for the fire which damaged the liner Normandie in New York but reported that opportunities for sabotage were "abundant."

Concluding a two months investigation, the subcommittee issued a long report sharply critical of government handling of the big ship and disclosed that orders had been given for it to sail on February 14, five days after it burned and capsized.

Asserting that the fire unquestionably started from sparks from a blow torch which ignited life preservers, the subcommittee said investigation failed to disclose any persons intent on acts of sabotage and said the fire "was not started with willful or malicious intent."

"There is no escape from the conclusion, however, that the cause and consequences of the fire are directly attributable to carelessness and lack of proper supervision," the report said.

"There was no evidence to indicate that the fire on the Normandie may be attributed to sabotage."

"* * * Opportunities for sabotage or almost any subversive activity were, however, abundant on the Normandie."

"That the fire may not be attributed to sabotage is only indicative, therefore, of the facts that saboteurs, if there were any, did not deem the time ripe for sabotage."

The subcommittee made 23 recommendations intended to prevent a repetition of such a fire, one of which was that operation of United States merchant vessels should be placed under the jurisdiction of the secretary of the navy.

Oklahoman Tells Moment Is Early

Of N.Y.A. Youths Who Land in Jail

Washington, April 15 (AP)—Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma told senators today that "a great majority" of first-term prisoners in his state's Granite reformatory were former Civilian Conservation Corps enrollees, and recommended abolition of that organization and the National Youth Administration.

Chairman Thomas (D., Utah) of the Senate labor committee immediately informed Phillips he would communicate with the appropriate authorities and recommend that N. Y. A. and C. C. C. aid be withdrawn from Oklahoma.

The red-haired, cigar chewing governor told the committee that both N. Y. A. and C. C. C. were "poison to our boys." He declared it was impossible for a farmer to get a full day's work from a youth who had spent one or two enlistments in a C. C. C. camp.

Thomas declared Phillips' statement was "the most startling and interesting we've heard since N. Y. A. was established."

The Oklahoma governor, apparently unperturbed by Thomas' announcement, moved toward withdrawal of federal youth aid money from his state, declared that if the senator would also see to it that the money were replaced with funds for vocational agricultural training, "I'd be the best friend Oklahoma ever had."

Phillips said that he had drawn his conclusions from talks with young prisoners in Granite reformatory, who had applied for clemency.

"A great majority of the young fellows in Granite reformatory are former enrollees of C. C. C. camps," he said.

"On the other hand, I've never found in either of the penal institutions of our state a member of the vocational classes or the Future Farmers of America."

General Johnson Dies of Pneumonia

In Capital Hotel

Former World War, N.R.A. Figure Spoke in City in 1939; Worked Against Orders

HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, April 15 (AP)—General Hugh S. Johnson—the hard-driving, angry-tongued "Ironpans" of the World War, and the recovery period NRA, and more recently a newspaper columnist—died of pneumonia today, 12 hours after writing a last column against his doctor's orders for rest.

Death came to the 59-year-old former soldier at 4:45 a. m. in a Washington Hotel. He had been weakened by several months of ill health.

(General Johnson spoke to a Kingston audience October 30, 1940, at the high school auditorium during the Roosevelt-Willkie presidential election campaign. The general, who appeared under the auspices of the Kingston College Women's Club, attacked the Roosevelt administration in his local address. The committee in charge of General Johnson's lecture said afterward they anticipated no political speech. One highlight of the local address was his statement that if Roosevelt were elected, "I know where I'll be. I'll be in a concentration camp.")

Although he rose from captain to a brigadier general with a Distinguished Service Medal in the World War, Johnson died a private. President Roosevelt on last April 30 refused his reappointment as an army reserve officer.

General Johnson came to national fame in 1933, when he stormed across the country organizing the NRA—the recovery period system of codes of practice for business and industry to keep prices and wages from being deflated.

He assailed as "chiselers," "torries," and "traitors" all those who refused to cooperate with him. When his NRA was in full swing 3,000,000 jobs and increased the country's purchasing power by $3,000,000,000 a year.

In his vitriolic campaign against violators of the NRA Blue Eagle codes Johnson added the phrase "crack down" and many others to the American language. In May, 1935, the Supreme Court declared the NRA setup unconstitutional and Johnson resigned, explaining that his Blue Eagle was now a "sick chicken."

Impatient of restraint, the general had quarreled frequently with fellow New Deal officials. He often criticized the "brain trust" of presidential advisers and finally, in October of 1935, he denounced the New Deal for "amazing blunders and failures" and called it "rule by radicals."

He once publicly told Harry Hopkins to "go to hell."

But when the 1936 election campaign began, Johnson was still in Presidential Roosevelt's corner. He declared in campaign addresses that the Republican Candidate Alf M. Landon had "swallowed the old guard doctrine whole" and called for re-election of the President.

Four years later, however, Johnson was in the Republican camp. From personal allegiance to the President but hatred of the brain trust his policy had changed to denunciation of what he termed "the third New Deal" as pointing the nation toward dictatorship.

Backs Willkie

He was among the first to back Wendell L. Willkie. In November of 1939, when Willkie was a comparative political unknown, Johnson was suggesting him as a "very strong" business man candidate.

Japanese Say Convoy of 15 Ships Sinks Off India

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

United States warplanes, smashing back at Japan in the first blow of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's pledged offensive to liberate the Philippines, were officially reported today to have bombed Manila and three other key Japanese bases in the islands.

Flying from bases in Australia, 13 big U. S. bombers, including three giant B-17 flying fortresses, took part in the assaults on Monday and Tuesday.

A bulletin from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Australia said the American fliers destroyed or damaged at least seven Japanese transports and 10 planes, and blasted Japanese troops concentrations, docks and warehouses.

The communique said the operation, commanded by Brig.-Gen. Ralph Royce, "demonstrated to the highest degree the spirit of offensive action so vital to the winning of any military conflict."

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said the attackers destroyed hangars and damaged runways at Nichols Field, in Manila.

At Davao, a Japanese bomber was destroyed and several others were damaged, two transports were hit and one probably was sunk, and a seaplane was shot down and two others damaged. In addition, Japanese troop concentrations were pounded, as well as docks and warehouses.

At Cebu, where 12,000 Japanese troops recently landed in an attempt to conquer that central Philippine island, three enemy transports were sunk and two others hit, the communique said. Three Japanese planes were shot down and several damaged on the ground.

Thus, Gen. MacArthur gave explosive warning to Japan of the allies' rising aerial power and underlined his pledge to defenders of the Philippines that "I came through and I will return."

Tokyo naval warships asserted today that Japanese warships operating close to the shores of India had sunk 15 large merchant ships in less than an hour in a surprise attack April 6 on a British convoy, while on the critical Burma war front, British and Chinese troops again were forced to retreat.

British headquarters conceded that Japanese invasion columns were now within 30 miles of the heart of the central Burma oil fields, chief source of China's oil supplies.

"Yesterday enemy pressure was increased over the whole front and fierce fighting was taking place," a British communique said.

In Tokyo, a Japanese naval commander declared Japanese warships boldly sailed so close to the Indian coast that the sailors could (Continued on Page Two)

Tokyo (from Japanese broadcasts), April 15 (AP)—Japanese bombers and heavy artillery placed on the Bataan coast joined yesterday in a heavy bombardment which, a Domei dispatch declared, silenced an American battery and seriously damaged fortifications of Corregidor.

"Enemy remnants fleeing from the vicinity of Cebu city," on the island of the same name, were bombed and machine-gunned in an aftermath of several landing operations, the news agency continued.

Runways and barracks at aerial installations on the Island of Mindanao were reported heavily bombed.

The news agency said Japanese reconnaissance fliers reported that accurate Japanese shelling was taking a heavy toll of enemy positions.

program, drafted after conferences between the governor and legislative leaders, rode through the state senate late yesterday without a dissenting vote after assembly passage Monday night.

The legislation provides for a salaried state civilian protection director and places county and city councils under supervision of a 20-member state organization. The latter would be empowered to remove or suspend any member of a local council, after a hearing, for neglect of duty.

Mayors of cities could become the local protection director or name a full-time director, salaried or non-salaried. County board of supervisors could assume the posts of deputy county directors or name their deputies.

Final approval was accomplished, however, only after senate debate on and defeat of two proposed amendments.

One would have placed the director of civilian protection in New York city, which is brought under state defense jurisdiction by the legislation, on the state war council. The other, proposed by Re-

Carhart Is Held

Boston, April 15 (AP)—Gregory Carhart, 29, of Westchesterfield attempted to plead guilty today to a charge of failure to respond to a draft call, but Federal Court entered a plea of innocence. He was held in $25,000 for a hearing April 22. The security was not furnished immediately. Carhart denied he threatened authorities with a shotgun and asserted: "I am a draft dodger according to the law, but they knew where I was. I didn't try to get away." Referring to his bail, Carhart said "If I get out, I would skip it."

cupied Europe yesterday which set a record of 9 1/2 hours duration.

Germany's Ruhr war foundries, vital to the success of Hitler's spring or summer offensive, now have been under a hail of "hundreds of tons of bombs" for six out of the last 10 nights, the British air ministry said.

Other assaults were directed against Le Havre, Boulogne, Calais, Cap Gris Nez, Hazebrouck and Nazi airdromes in occupied France, and reached as far as Turin, Italy.

In addition, German radio stations went off the air this morning at Hilversum, Holland; Luxembourg, Calais and Paris—indicating that R. A. F. planes were active again in those vicinities.

Hitler's high command said nine British planes were shot down in air battles over the channel and off the Norwegian coast, 10 in night raids over western Germany, and nine more over Malta and the North African coast.

Sandstorms Reported

North Africa—British Middle East headquarters reported sandstorms over the Libyan desert battlefield were so intense that Axis planes were seen to bomb one of their own columns. Land fighting was restricted.

On the diplomatic front, France's swing into the camp of Hitler's totalitarian satellites held the spotlight.

In London, a British foreign office spokesman declares bluntly that the re-entry of the No. 1 French collaborationist, Pierre Laval, into the Vichy government had reduced Vichy to the level of a "nickel Balkan state" under the thumb of Adolf Hitler.

The British spokesman said the Vichy cabinet shake-up, elevating Laval to the post of chief of government, "clearly indicates the complete subservience of Vichy policy" to Berlin.

Well-informed London quarters said Hitler had forced 85-year-old Chief of State Petain to reinstate Laval by threatening France with mass starvation.

In Washington, informed sources generally expected the recall of U. S. Ambassador William D. Leahy, and a high government commentator said frankly that a complete re-examination of American relations with Vichy was "obviously" necessary.

The situation was further complicated by the Vichy regime's action last night in angrily rejecting Washington's explanation for sending an American consul general accredited to Free French authorities in control of French Equatorial Africa.

The Washington note, replying to a Vichy protest over the appointment, had declared that Frenchmen collaborating with Hitler were "attempting to prostitute their country."

see hills and white forts in closing in on the big British account. The eye-witness account said convoy raiders for a British naval unit and that the Japanese men o'war moved in until the 8-inch guns on the decks of the British ships were clearly visible, then opened fire.

Aside from the heavy blow to British shipping, the attack emphasized the Japanese Minister Churchill's statement that Japan now virtually controls the vital waters of the Indian Ocean—in a position either to prey on allied supply lines or to attempt a seaborne invasion of India.

Churchill said Japan had three battleships, five aircraft carriers and flotillas of destroyers operating off the Indian coast.

The broadcast also asserted that "enemy remnants fleeing from the vicinity of Cebu City" in the Central Philippines, 250 miles south of Manila, had been bombed and machine-gunned by Japanese warplanes.

Washington reports, however, said scattered bands of American and Filipino troops were waging steady brush warfare against the Japanese invaders to keep as many as possible engaged in the Philippine area.

American-Filipino troops were said to have carried out successful raids against Japanese positions in the mountains of northern Luzon Island, and 600 miles to the south, another raiding party ambushed a Japanese truck column and inflicted heavy casualties.

On the Burma front, British headquarters said hard-fighting Chinese troops under Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, U.S.A., had been forced to give ground in the key Sittang river sector, guarding the road to Mandalay.

"It was reported from the Chinese expeditionary force field headquarters that Chinese forces on the southern front have withdrawn to Myittha, a few miles north of the S.W.A. fighting strong delaying action all the way," a British communiqué said.

"Enemy occupation of Mityangye necessitated the withdrawal of our troops from that area."

Returns to Power

New York, April 15 (AP)—Prices staged a moderate and slow-paced comeback in today's stock market after the sharp decline of the previous session.

Bell-wethers such as U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas, Boeing, American Telephone, du Pont, Johns Manville, Westinghouse and Santa Fe added fractions to a point near the fourth hour.

After a ragged start, commodities steadied. Bonds staged a small comeback from an uncertain opening.

The curb market held relatively steady, pursuing an even quieter course than the big market. American Light & Traction, Fairchild Engine and Lake Shore Mines managed improvement at times. On extremely small dealings, Great Atlantic & Pacific lost more than two points, and Cleveland Electric Illuminating about a point. An odd lot of Buckeye Pipe Line moved about a point higher.

ing parties to a surrender of their ships to the Nazis.

Thus we have a position in which Hitler would be challenging trouble if he acted precipitately in any direction. Why then this sudden burst of energy in Berlin to remould the Vichy government into the image of the fuhrer?

For one thing London hears that Nazism is suffering from war nerves and is worried over the possibility of an allied invasion through France. Should this be accompanied by a revolt of the French people it would be a nasty business for the Nazis. The possibilities are that Laval-the-fixer has a pocket full of "concessions" to hand the French public in exchange for tranquility.

Then, too, Hitler is about to stake everything on the fling of his spring or summer offensive, and he wants those warships and colonial bases. He is daring the wrath of the French people to get these boons.

However, at present the outcome of the Vichy shake-up is far from certain.

Curtin Is in Favor of Having MacArthur in Full Charge Of United Nations' Forces

United States Army Headquarters in Australia, April 15 (AP)—Australian Prime Minister John Curtin heartily concurred today in President Roosevelt's statement that General Douglas MacArthur is in supreme command of the United Nations' forces in the southwest Pacific.

The general's own headquarters, however, apparently was without direct information to that effect, and a statement of a headquarters spokesman appeared to indicate that uncertainty as to his status persisted.

In answer to questions whether MacArthur was supreme commander and what area his command covered, the spokesman made four points:

That an allied command had not yet been effected;

That MacArthur at present is in command of United States armed forces in the Far East as he has been since last July;

That MacArthur's general headquarters have been moved from the Philippines to Australia, which is the only physical change that has taken place;

That discussions are taking place in Washington and no decision or directive has yet been received.

Pressed for an interpretation of this, the spokesman said he could give none except to say that the general has been in close consultation with Australian army and government officials and had received utmost cooperation in planning for eventual official assumption of the command.

Curtin, however, made unmistakably clear that in Australia's view that MacArthur is supreme commander of all allied forces in the southwest Pacific and said he had power to take "any steps he thinks fit."

The prime minister pointed out that a supreme commander was appointed in his own offices in consultation with the governments involved.

Thus, he said, the Australian General Sir Thomas Blamey, commander of all land forces in Australia; the American Lieutenant General George H. Brett, air commander and MacArthur's chief aide, and American Rear Admiral Herbert F. Leary, head of the naval forces, all were under MacArthur.

(President Roosevelt reemphasized at a press conference yesterday that MacArthur had full authority over the United Nations' forces, including naval power, in the southwest Pacific. However, he said that for operational reasons he could not say whether New Zealand or other specific areas were within the zone and that it was better "to have the enemy guess than to tell them.")

(In London, a Netherlands spokesman said that, although MacArthur's powers had not been defined officially, all Dutch air, sea and land forces which escaped from the East Indies were at his disposal.)

Incident Raids Are Held in City

Eighth, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Wards Are Scenes of Tests

A realistic note was struck

Tuesday night as an airplane soared high over Kingston as an incendiary bomb was "reported to have struck and damaged the house of Fred Baker on Montrepose avenue, injuring three people" as the air raid wardens and other civilian forces staged an incident air raid in the Eighth Ward. Similar incident air raids were also staged that night in the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Wards.

The first air raid alarm was sounded at 6:50 o'clock and the alarms followed in other wards spaced at 10 minute intervals.

While the air raid wardens were handling the crowds that had gathered auxiliary fire fighters stretched ladders to the roofs of the "bombed houses" to extinguish the fire set by the falling bombs.

As the civilian forces were busy extinguishing the bomb and the fires first aid men and women attended the "injured" and prepared them to be carried out to waiting ambulances which had responded to a call for aid.

The ambulances rushed the "injured" to the emergency hospital which last night was set up on the lawn at the Kingston High School, instead of the municipal auditorium which had been used in previous incident air raids in the city.

The emergency hospital was in charge of Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, who was assisted by two nurses.

The first "victim" to arrive at the hospital in an ambulance was Mrs. Doris Rougier of 65 Third avenue in the Fourth Ward where an incident had been staged in front of Smith's grocery store on Delaware avenue, at Second avenue.

Other "injured" from the Fourth Ward were Raymond Prusak of 44 Third avenue, Helen Jankowski of 24 Second avenue, and Donald Jankowski of 37 Third avenue.

From the Fifth Ward came Frank Hart of 259 Delaware avenue, Miss Burnadette Burzee of 44 Lindsley avenue and Miss Jacqueline Morgan of 79 Abruyn street. The incident was staged in that ward in front of the house of Frank McCausland on Crane street.

The "injured" from the Sixth

Ward were Edward Hutton of 24 Jarrold street and Joseph Lukas of 55 East Pierpont street. The incident in that ward was staged at the corner of East Pierpont and Chambers streets.

From the Eighth Ward came Walter Byrnes of 7 New street, Robert Sahloff of 40 Montrepose avenue and William Baker of Montrepose avenue.

All of the incidents were said to have proven successful by Mayor William F. Edelmuth, who was accompanied on his rounds of the wards by Chief of Police Charles Phinney.

How the incident was staged in the Eighth Ward will give a general idea of how the program functioned in all four wards last night.

It was at 6:30 o'clock that the civilian forces began to gather on Montrepose avenue in front of the Baker home which had been designated as "the house struck by an incendiary bomb."

The air raid wardens wore bands on their arms designating them as wardens. Before the "bomb dropped on the house," Judge Robert G. Groves gave a brief talk to the crowd who had gathered to watch the civilian forces at work. He said that the bomb would be placed in the street in front of the Baker house and lighted and warned the crowd to remain away from the bomb and stay on the opposite side of the street. He said the raid was being staged to acquaint the civilians participating as to their duties in case of an actual emergency.

Then as Judge Groves entered his home to telephone an alarm to the control center in the city hall asking for assistance, the drone of an airplane was heard high in the sky and the crowd glancing upwards saw the silvery shape of an airplane flying high over the city on its way down the Hudson river.

As the drone of the motor disappeared in the distance the bomb was lighted and the civilian forces sprang into activities.

Within a very brief period of time after the alarm had been telephoned the control center, four ambulances rushed to Montrepose avenue, while the mayor and the police chief also appeared in an automobile.

Several policemen who had been assigned to traffic duty kept the block open and clear of all traffic while the incident was being staged.

As two men worked at extinguishing the bomb by the use of spraying water on it from a hose and covering it with sand, other workers climbed up the ladder to the roof of the Baker house while inside the house first aid workers applied first aid and bandages to the "injured" who were ready when the ambulances drew up in front of the house.

The incident gave the residents of the ward a vivid picture of what would happen in case of a real emergency.

Dear Sir:

This is to inform you that as a result of the motor vehicle accident which occurred on April 9, 1942 at Hometown, N. Y., in which you were involved, you have become subject to the requirements of the safety responsibility law.

If you were carrying liability and property damage insurance at the time of the accident it is suggested that you send to this office a notice form SR-21 immediately. This notice can be obtained from your insurance company. The filing of this notice relieves you of furnishing security and future financial responsibility.

If you were not insured at the time of the accident you are required to deposit $ 5525.00 as immediate security to cover any possible judgment arising out of that accident. This may be submitted in cash, negotiable securities or by surety bonds.

You must also furnish financial responsibility for the future. This may be submitted in the form of insurance, form SR-22 to be obtained from your insurance company.

Failure to comply with the above requirements before May 25, 1942 will result in the suspension of your license and registrations until such time as you do comply.

If you mail an insurance certificate or securities, attach one of the copies of this form. Certificates or securities should be sent to the office address given on the department letterhead.

If no suit has been filed against you within one year from the date of the accident your deposit will be returned. If you have been suspended your license may be returned provided you furnish financial responsibility for the future.

Very truly yours,
Carroll E. Healey
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

Stop, look, think, before crossing the street

THE Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Law in effect since January 1 penalizes the motorist who is involved in any accident resulting in any personal injury or property damage in excess of $25.00 UNLESS he has security to prove his financial responsibility.

If you are without Automobile Liability insurance, or failed to show in your accident report that you were properly insured, you will receive a letter similar to the one appearing in this advertisement.

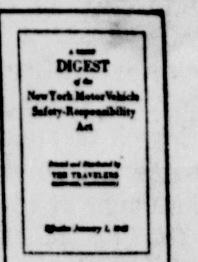

The best, safest, and most economical method of satisfying the requirements of this law, is to own Automobile Liability insurance in a company licensed to do business in this state.

The Travelers Insurance Companies, the largest writers of Automobile Liability insurance, have had long experience in handling the type of automobile insurance best suited to meet the requirements of this law.

Today, when you cherish your car more than you ever did before, you don't want to be barred from the roads through lack of financial responsibility. Insurance purchased before an accident occurs will protect you. See a Travelers agent or your broker and let him explain the value of Automobile insurance which will help you keep your driving and car-owning privileges.

All Asked to Aid In Book Campaign

Many Varieties of Books Needed for Camps

Americans everywhere were called upon by President Roosevelt to share their libraries with our men in the armed forces at home and overseas.

Directing attention to Friday, April 17, as Victory Book Day to promote the Victory Book Campaign sponsored jointly by the U. S. O., the American Library Association and the American Red Cross, the President at his press conference this afternoon voiced the hope that the entire nation would make an extra effort to donate worthwhile books for our fighting men in the army, the navy, the marines and the merchant marine.

Meanwhile in New York, John Connor, director of the Victory Book Campaign, which was launched on a nationwide scale last January, announced at book campaign headquarters in the Empire State Building that a Victory Book Day Committee has been formed to supervise the flow, collection and distribution to camps, army posts, naval bases, U. S. O. clubs and the merchant marine, of books collected throughout the country.

The books will be picked up by bread and milk companies, department stores, legitimate theatres, movie houses, public utilities, bus lines, grocery chains, storage warehouses, and police and fire departments, and turned over to the community libraries, who will distribute them to the armed services as designated by Victory Book Campaign headquarters.

Supplementing the President's announcement of Victory Book Day on Friday, April 17, the Victory Book Committee has urged citizens—men, women and children—to run to their bookshelves, not walk, and select stalwart volumes which are favorites, books that can be read by our men in service, books that amuse, refresh and stimulate, books that will tell them things and help them to get ahead in the army, the navy and the marine corps. Quoting a statement of Donald Nelson, W. P. B. chief, that "this is neither an old man's war nor a young man's war; this is a smart man's war," the committee urges donors to use the following slogan as their selective guide: "If there are books you especially prize—give them!"

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Old Stuff

South Bend, Ind. — William Hutchins wondered if the war had come to his doorstep.

He was raking his backyard when he turned up a hand grenade, and quickly called police.

A police bomb expert assured him the grenade was a dud and probably came from the last war, not this one.

Slight Mistake

Indianapolis — Mrs. Pearl Prout and her three children became ill after supper.

Police asked her what they had eaten and she told them a cake she'd baked with sour milk a relative had left.

They looked at what was left in the bottle from which Mrs. Prout said she had got the milk. It was liquid floor wax.

What to Do?

Salt Lake City — Mayor Ab Jenkins signed a "Be Kind to Animals Week" proclamation ceremoniously.

Laying aside the pen, he turned to another paper on his desk. It was a formal protest from a group of citizens asking the city to do something about the stray dog nuisance.

That Ill Wind Again

Seattle — Johnnie may have a new alibi for showing up without his homework.

Pupils will be given only two pencils next year. The war's pinching the supplies.

Specialists

Springfield, Mo. — The fire department's April report is out.

Items listed: One hundred sixty five fire alarms answered; numerous streets washed; cat rescued; radio aerial put up; leaky refrigerator repaired; removal of a beauty shop sign and the public square flag kept untangled on windy days.

One Sign Too Many

Holdrege, Neb. — A two months epidemic of mumps here has reached its climax.

Police Chief A. B. Peterson, after tacking up about 200 quarantine signs during that period, hung one of the signs on his own front door and then retired to bed with badly swollen jaws.

Remote Control

Los Angeles — "Dear Mr. Stewart," the letter read.

"Please tell Mr. Wong to irrigate the celery at least once every five days if it fails to rain and to harvest the crop as soon as possible to prevent seeding."

It was George Nakamura, Japanese evacuee, sending instructions to his Chinese tenant, Sing

Wong, with Farm Security Administration agent, John Stewart, as the middle man.

Nakamura arranged for Wong's services before he was moved inland.

LAND OF THE FREE —TO SERVE!

ON A THOUSAND fronts our women are enrolled in the task of winning the war.

Today Mrs. America is doing double duty! In every city, town and hamlet her busy fingers are knitting for the boys in Service. Her boundless energies are devoted to the Red Cross, the Nurse's Aid and countless other activities. Right now, as part of our Victory program, more women are working in factories than ever before.

For every housewife, whether she's stitching parachutes or doing war work at home, there still remains the all-important job of protecting her family's well-being at a time when the nation's high health standards and morale must be maintained.

So whatever her war efforts, she is still on the job in 30,000,000 kitchens providing for the health and happiness of her family!

In the dual role of wife and citizen, Mrs. America has a valuable ally in the House of Heinz and other makers of quality prepared foods. Since the famous 57 Varieties are ready to serve, they save time every day... lessen her work in the kitchen... provide more hours to give her country!

It is because American women are so free in their homes that they are able to serve their country so well today.

For there's spare time in every Heinz ready-to-serve food on the grocer's shelves today!

It would take hours to duplicate Heinz foods, that are ready to serve in a few minutes. In addition, preparation time is eliminated—fuel and shopping effort saved!

For instance, soup-making in the home takes an average of 4 hours. For many years, Heinz Soups have saved all but a few minutes of this time. Similarly, baked beans require a day and a half for preparation... but ever since Heinz Oven-Baked Beans were introduced, only heating before serving has been necessary. And Heinz Jellies and Relishes eliminate tedious days of household canning every year.

So Heinz foods are saving and will continue to save millions of kitchen hours for the women of America—precious hours that can be devoted to the needs of the nation!

Prepared in the small-batch, old-fashioned way, Heinz foods are ready to help you keep right on setting the finest table in the world. Heinz Tomato Ketchup, Chili Sauce and Tomato Juice are rich in the homespun flavors America has always loved. The same is true of Heinz Pickles, Relishes, Steamed Puddings and Jellies—Apple Butter and Peanut Butter. Heinz Baby Foods—like all the 57 Varieties—are made of the highest-quality ingredients the land affords.

And because we have been working constantly on the development of new methods, new products and new packages, women everywhere can continue to depend on us for many delicious, time-saving foods their families need and want!

For more than 73 years nourishing Heinz foods have graced the tables of America. Today they mean more than flavorful, nutritious eating. They also represent a ready source of the vital extra hours your country asks of you now.

Do You Remember?

Do you remember dear,
The cathedral stillness of the night,
The trees that dared not whisper,
How the stars ceased dancing in the sky,
All Nature, tensely silent as a church
Upon the occasion of a wedding,
The night I said "I love you."

I can remember dear,
The heaven I saw in your eyes,
The comfort I felt in your arms,
Your head upon my shoulder,
My lips lost in your hair,
The murmur in your voice when you
Answered, "I love you too, darling,
More than anything in the world."

Can I forget it dear?
Do you remember dear,
How the trees sang,
How the stars danced,
How all Nature applauded when
The Almighty finished His Benediction;
When our lips kissed with the life
They were denied the right to live.
Do you remember dear?
—Saul Friedman

Spring Is Here or Is It?

Last week the sun shone fierce
And hot
Putting all mortals on the spot,
Exhausted and worn from the heat,
Bemoaning that spring had been Too fleet
In passing up her usual beauties
And taking on mid-summer duties;
Hastening the birds and flowers
As they lived again for a few Short hours.

Today there's no sound of birds
And bees,
The snow lies heavy on the trees
Bending the branches to the ground.
The highways bounds can scarce
Be found.
A blanket of soft, downy white
Now hides the budding plants
From sight.
As they snuggle 'neath the fleecy show,
'Til they're awakened for their flower show.

I thought that winter had its fling,
Three weeks ago was the first of Spring!
An old time adage has proved untrue
And really should be changed for new:
Though the calendar says that spring is here
This snowstorm proves it wrong.
I fear!
Winter, it seems, has been retrieving
And proves that seeing is NOT believing!

Happiness

Happiness is a habit. A bright hopeful, optimistic attitude of mind is essential to your well-being. There is healing power in a single spiritual idea. Peace, poise, confidence, and contentment are the natural products of a happy disposition. Kindness and appreciation promote happiness. Generosity and good-will have an up-lifting influence.

To be happy is not only your privilege, but it is your duty. The power which you have to give happiness to others implies an obligation to do so.

Happiness does not depend so much upon great material possessions as upon the right mental attitude. Nothing will so surely produce happiness in your own life and that of those about you as a uniform habit of kindness and appreciation.

—Grenville Kleiser

Hubby—You'll have to admit, honey, that I can make a dollar go a long way.

Wife—Yes, dear, you certainly can! In fact, they go so far away we never see them again.

"Your actions speak so loudly that I can't hear what you say."

Preacher's Wife—Where have you been the last three hours?

Wearily Pastor—I met Mrs.
Blank on the street and asked how her married daughter was getting along. So she told me.

A camel getting through a needle's eye had a cinch compared to a visitor getting into a defense plant these days.

Jack (in front of dental display window)—I believe I'll get myself a set of teeth like those over there.

Virginia—Hush, don't you know it's impolite to pick your teeth in public.

The man who does his best today will be hard to beat tomorrow.

Clerk—No, madam, we haven't had any for a long time.

Manager (interrupting)—Oh, yes, we have it madam. I will send out to the warehouse and have some brought in for you.
(Whispering to the clerk again) —Never refuse anything. Send out for it.

As the lady went out laughing, the manager demanded: What did she say?

Clerk—She said we haven't had any rain lately.

Student—I'll flip a coin. Heads
—we go to a movie—tails—we go to see the girls. If it stands on edge—we study.

Americans would rather die on their feet than live on their knees.

Tubby—After all, fools help to make life interesting. When all the fools are killed off, I don't want to be here.

Pete—Don't worry; you won't be.

Secret Orders

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

YESTERDAY: Stephanie Merrill no sooner realized that she was much attracted to Capt. Kurt Knudsen than two things happened: Stephanie's cousin Vicky set her cap for Kurt, and Kurt was called to duty with the Air Corps. Now Stephanie is left to the care of Henri de la Pagerie, of whom she is suspicious, and of her father, who is worried because the war orders in his big plant at Titan are in a suspicious tangle.

Chapter Six Trouble At Titan

ALL through the long hours at headquarters the next day, Stephanie carried the dull burden of her anxiety for her father. But as the busy hours sped along and no word came from Titan, she began to relax a little. Probably he had been over-tired, over-wrought so that the whole picture had loomed blacker than it really was. It wasn't that Guy Merrill was to be that way. Still, he was under strain. Everybody was.

With a long sigh, Stephanie turned into the drive, then stopped short. There, parked under the old porte-cochere stood the little blue coupe. Her own car with not a scar to show. But—how—

Turning, she fled up the front steps.

"Tsang, who—" she began as she met the old servant in the front hall.

"Gentleman in the front parlor waiting for little Missy," Tsang beamed.

Could it be—Kurt? Her heart picked up momentum as she paused a moment at the parlor. Then, still not sure she could control her leaping excitement, she went in.

The tall man standing before the marble fireplace was not Kurt Knudsen. Stephanie's excitement collapsed like a pricked balloon. Then, recovering politeness, she smiled.

"Hello, Henri. This is a surprise."

He bowed, that strangely foreign little gesture. "A pleasant one, I trust."

Henri would say something like that. Stephanie thought wryly and suppressed a giggle. American boys didn't sound like something out of a novel.

"I suppose I have you to thank that my car is in the drive out there and not marooned in a Peralta garage?"

Henri bowed again. "I was sure you would need it."

"It was very kind of you to bother. And—" hearing her own speeches take on airs, she laughed, "you must have crossed some palms with silver to get it done so quickly."

"It was quite simple. With a little—pressure."

Plenty of pressure, she'd wager on that. Henri looked like the kind of man who'd demand service, and get it!

And she was quite right about that. Later, as they stood in the crowded foyer at the Skyline, San Francisco's number one smart-spot for the moment, Henri's "pressure" got him a table practically out of thin air, and a bowing waiter, and pheasant stuffed with wild rice.

Compliments From Henri

STEPHANIE hadn't wanted to accept his invitation to dinner. But after all, he'd been so considerate as to return her car. Naturally she couldn't tell him she'd much prefer spending the evening with a good book.

And now, she thought sipping the sparkling Moselle Henri had ordered, she wasn't sorry she'd come after all. She'd never been in the Skyline before. Campus dates rarely included dinner at ten dollars a plate!

And Henri himself was no slouch. Stephanie was glad she hadn't listened to a perverse whim to wear her uniform. Her "good" brown suit matched her eyes and hair and the gold blouse "did things" for her. She knew she was well dressed and that Henri was proud of her.

"You are very lovely tonight, Stephanie," he said then in answer to her thought. "You are a beautiful woman. Beautiful and intelligent. I assure you, too, it is a very rare combination."

"Thank you," Stephanie murmured, flushing and at the same time, surprisingly aware that his compliments embarrassed but did not thrill her. She glanced at Henri now to see if the flattery was as insincere as it sounded. But the baffling depths of his dark eyes told her nothing.

"You look tired now, my dear," he said with what sounded almost like tenderness. "Perhaps you would rather I took you home."

Stephanie smiled gratefully. "I am tired."

"You work far too hard at your Headquarters," he said as he helped her into her coat.

"Oh no I don't. Besides, the work is there to be done."

"And I have no doubt that you do it exceptionally well."

Call From Titan

Tsang had the front door opened the moment she and Henri reached the front porch. One glance at that familiar round face roused the anxiety that had lain dormant during the evening.

"Tsang! What is it?"

"Bad, little Missy," he wagged his head. "Telephone lady wants to talk long way off."

The long distance operator, Stephanie translated, racing to the phone. Dad calling, of course. Trouble at Titan!

It took eternities to put the call through. When Stephanie finally heard her father's voice, she cried, "Daddy! Are you all right?"

"Yes. Everything's under control now. Just wanted you to hear from me before you got the news from anyone else and began to worry."

"We caught a fellow trying to fire the boat just after it docked this morning."

"The boat loaded with nitrates," she gasped. "But how?"

"He'd been smuggled aboard, somehow. I have guards posted everywhere. He might even have gone aboard when the boat left Santiago. Nobody seems to know anything about him."

"But you caught him."

"Sure, but he won't talk. I'm not even sure he has much to tell. Pretty obvious he's just a tool."

"Then that means that whoever is the brains of the plot will probably try again."

"Probably," Guy Merrill laughed dryly. "But, everything's serene tonight. I probably won't be home for a few days."

"Oh, Daddy, please try to get back. Will you try to get home tomorrow?"

"I'll see. Be a good girl."

"Bye, Dad."

Slowly she replaced the receiver. He'd sounded confident, but if there was still danger—

Turning, she was suddenly aware that Henri had followed her to the door of her father's study, stood now where she couldn't have helped hearing her end of the conversation.

"Forgive me for listening, Stephanie," he apologized instantly coming toward her. "I couldn't avoid hearing and I had realized something was worrying you seriously. Your father is all right now, isn't he?"

"Yes, thank you."

"I'm very glad." He took both her hands in his, looked down at her with a quiet little smile. "And if there is anything I can do at any time to be of service to you, please do not hesitate to ask."

"Why—that's very nice of you, Henri. I don't think there is—"

"You promise me to let me know if you are ever in need of help?" he persisted, bending his head toward her a little.

Stephanie shrugged. "Certainly I'll promise. It's very nice of you to offer."

"My dear, it is the least a friend can do. I know what it means to have someone you love dearly in danger of his life. I hope your father returns soon." He shook his head thoughtfully. "Firing a boat, load of nitrates is dangerous business. I should say."

Reluctant to discuss details with Henri, she was glad when he finally said goodnight.

to place the responsibility for acts of carelessness on any one individual but did say there was "undue haste, indecision and lack of careful planning in connection with the conversion of the Normandie."

After noting that the former French ship was taken over by the navy on December 24, 1941, the report said:

"It was first thought that the Normandie might be used as an airplane carrier. Then, this idea was discarded as well as one of making a boxed plane cargo ship out of it. Later, it was thought that she could be converted for use as a unit loaded transport operated by navy and coast guard personnel. It was then decided to turn her over to the army and orders were issued to that effect, but within two weeks that was given up and it was finally decided that the navy should retain control of the vessel, manage her and use her for a unit loaded transport vessel. These various decisions resulted in delay in the conversion of the ship, for changes had to be made from one plan to another in the conversion for different purposes."

"In this case, as in all work to be done in the conversion of ships for war use, speed is, of course, highly desirable and it is necessary to take some chances. The decision is not always an easy one, but in the matter of the Normandie, under all the conditions existing and circumstances surrounding its speedy preparation for an early sailing, the conclusion is inescapable that it was bad judgment to issue orders for the sailing of this ship on February 14."

Evidence Conclusive

"The evidence is conclusive that the ship was not in proper condition to be ready to sail on February 14 and, regardless of necessity for speed, too long a chance was being taken in ordering the ship out before conditions were adequate to protect those on board and the ship itself, from loss. The evidence is also conclusive that competent naval officers as late as February 14 and that the recommendations were overruled."

The subcommittee said there was confusion in the testimony it had taken and no direct evidence as to who was responsible for the sailing order but remarked that it came from the navy department in Washington "and it can be presumed that it was done on the highest controlling authority."

Also, the report said, there was lack of adequate supervision of the contractor, and lack of adequate fire prevention safeguards and lack of sufficient trained personnel on the vessel; there was an absence of proper coordination between the activities of various units on board; and there was

"divided authority and lack of unified command."

Certain delegated authority apparently had been given to officers but, "apparently there was no one authority who seemed to think that he was, or knew who was, in entire charge of the ship," the report added.

Among major recommendations approved by the subcommittee were the following:

An administrator in each naval district should be charged with the duty of protecting and guarding all water front facilities, terminals, piers and properties engaged in war-supplies and cargo movements.

Shipyard fire watchers should be trained by arrangement with the local fire department and certified by the Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation and no fire watchers should be employed on any vessel without such certificate.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation in each naval district should be designated to have full and exclusive control of all matters dealing with espionage, sabotage and subversive elements in the maritime industry.

No one should be granted access to any prohibited zone unless he has a coast guard identification card.

The operation of merchant vessels of the United States should be placed under the jurisdiction of the secretary of the navy and such vessels together with their personnel should operate as an auxiliary to the navy. Consideration should be given to stabilizing for the duration of the war of current wage scales and all holders of marine licenses and marine certificates should register with the commandant of the district in which they now reside."

The subcommittee was composed of Chairman Drewry, (D., Va.), and Representatives Izac (D., Calif.), Sasser (D., Md.), Heffernan (D., N. Y.), Maas (R., Minn.), Mott (R., Ore.), and Bates (R., Mass.).

In addition to those who left this morning 14 others who had been passed by the Kerhonkson Board had been transferred to other boards for induction. Deputy Sheriffs Fredenburg, DeWitt and Barley were on hand and directed traffic until the buses had left for Governors Island.

This is the 24th and largest contingent to go from the Kerhonkson draft board area which comprises the towns of Wawarsing, Rochester, Marlletown, Rosendale, Hurley, Denning and Olive. The next largest contingent, 53 men, left in March.

Gillette Might Ask Senate Probe of Jap Wage Issue

Washington, April 15 (AP)—Senator Gillette (D-Ia.) said today he might ask the Senate to investigate reports that interned Japanese nationals in this country "are being paid at a higher rate than our soldiers and others in the armed forces."

"I have a number of reports that, if true, would give ample reason for adopting more strict regulations for these interned aliens," the Iowa senator said.

Gillette said that much of his information had come from Kilsoo Haan, Korean who has been engaged in anti-Japanese activities in this country and the Hawaiian islands for several years.

"One report is that Japs now interned were receiving more than $50 monthly compared with $21 monthly going to selectees," the senator said. "Another stated that Japs from California have been interned near the water supply sources of Los Angeles where it might be easy to cause serious trouble."

"Still another is that in a Jap camp in North Dakota the interned Japs have been holding political meetings attended by Germans from the nearby community. My information is that guards outside the fence around the camp have been kept outside of hearing distance from these political sessions."

Program Is Drawn

Washington, April 15 (AP)—A new $800,000,000 submarine construction program to give the United States the undersize striking power for a crippling blow at Japan's long Pacific supply route is being presented to Congress. The program provides for 170,000 tons of undersize craft, which would allow for more than 100 of the present 1,500-ton cruiser type submarines. Sixty-five of this type already have been authorized under the 1940 supplementary programs, and the navy last October had 186 submarines in service.

Fruit Buds Only Need Warm Days

First of Weekly Reports on Crops Given

Albany, N. Y., April 15 (AP)—Fruit buds in New York are swollen and need only a little farm weather to cause them to burst, the Albany Weather Bureau reported today in the first of its weekly summaries on weather and crop conditions.

In the lower Hudson valley, the bureau said, apple buds are in the "green tip" stage.

The report, formerly issued in Ithaca, covered the week ending yesterday.

"After the rapid start made in the preceding week, vegetation has been retarded by the cold weather," the bureau said. "However, new seeding, clover, alfalfa and winter grains, being favored with abundant moisture, continued the growth of green, and appear to be in good condition."

Spring plowing made little or no progress on account of wet ground, the report added, and other farm work was rather inactive. The maple sugaring "practically ended with a satisfactory season in general contrary to earlier unfavorable reports."

Saugerties Sends Largest Selectee Contingent Away

The largest contingent yet to leave from the area of the Saugerties Draft Board, No. 314, received a rousing farewell when they left at 10:30 o'clock this morning on three Mountain View buses for Albany. Of the group which went nearly half were from the town of Saugerties. The crowd that gathered to see the boys off is said to have been one of the largest ever to assemble in Saugerties.

Before leaving for Albany there was a parade led by the American Legion, followed by the Glasco Band, the selectees and the Glasco Holy Name Society. The parade started at the headquarters of the C. B. Lynch Hose Co., on the South side and marched to the Municipal Building, from which point the boys took their departure. C. B. Lynch, chief of the Saugerties Fire Department, was among those who went.

Named as leaders of the contingent were John F. Carnright, Jr., Russell O'Day and John Rivenbergh.

Marketing Problems Increase in State

Ithaca, N. Y., April 15—Recommendations on deferments, farm surpluses, daylight saving, transportation, food prices, and shortages of materials are announced by a New York state committee on marketing and distribution, composed of farmers, farm leaders, state college of agriculture and state department officials. The committee is part of the larger state land-use planning committee.

Among the recommendations: Deferments: It is important to defer not only key young men on farms, but also those who render important service in marketing farm products.

Surpluses: New York farms have responded well to the "food for freedom" program. For example, milk delivered to country plants the first three months of this year was eight per cent more than for the same period a year ago. The federal goal is only five per cent. This means more milk has to go into manufactured products, which is not to the best advantage of New York dairymen.

It was urged that the New York city department of health, and others interested in marketing of milk in cities cooperate in the interest of the nation's food program.

Daylight saving: No further extension of time desired.

Transportation: Plenty of adjustments recognized as needed. One need is to increase the efficiency in hauling milk from farms to plants, with perhaps the re-routing of truckmen who collect the milk. Adjustments, similarly, may apply to hauling vegetables to market, and other farm products.

More cooperation by city labor in marketing farm products was recommended.

Farmers were urged to make the most of two types of cooperatives: those that handle farm supplies, and those that give them a chance to assist in the marketing of a crop, or give them bargaining powers.

Food prices: Prices of foods are relatively cheap. Consumers ought to be informed on food values and on costs and prices. They should be urged, also, to use seasonal products promptly.

Shortages of Materials: The committee recognized the shortage of containers for fruits and vegetables, and that many products could well use second-hand containers. Waste was deplored, and even the army should not waste useable containers, it was said.

In view of a shortage of burlap, cotton or paper bags may be used for potatoes, including the consumer packages for 10-15 pound packs.

The difficulty of getting nails needed to make containers was recognized, and action taken to get allocations to the industry. It was urged, too, that much of the final packaging of farm products be done in the country to cut down on city labor costs and on repackaging.

Lack of tin was recognized as one big problem, and it was pointed out more carrots but fewer beets would be canned in the state this year. No tin is available for canning 'kraut except for 50 per cent of that already in vats. It may mean more 'kraut will be sold from barrels or other containers, or the dehydrated product increased. Cabbage growers do not know how much to grow this year and would like the armed forces to place orders at once.

The Suez Canal, opened in 1869, was thirteen years in construction.

How You Can Spot An Enemy Bomber

Japanese Mitsubishi and Nazi Junkers

ENEMY LONG-RANGE BOMBERS

If you know how to spot enemy bombers you may save lives! You don't have to be an aviation expert. Points of plane recognition are at wings, body and tail; these are clearly diagrammed in our "Aircraft Spotters' Guide."

See the diagram of the Japanese Mitsubishi Type 96. This bomber is famous (or infamous) for its use in China raids.

Looking at the bottom and front diagrams, you see that the wings are tapered and also sweep up with a slight break, to the tips. The tail is elliptical.

The Nazi Junkers Ju 86 has a range of 1,500 miles. The bottom and front diagrams show that its wings are also tapered, but they slope to the tips WITHOUT a break. The tailplane is rectangular.

Know your planes! Keep an eye on the sky! Available to you for only 25c, our special 100-page booklet "Aircraft Spotters' Guide" pictures 90 Allied and Axis planes. Gives descriptions, facts about each. Used by official spotters, aviation enthusiasts, Boy Scouts, many others.

Send 25c for your copy of "Aircraft Spotters' Guide" to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Good Taste Today

MAY A MAN WEAR WEDDING RING?

The question of whether a man may wear a wedding ring in this present day, and if so, whether he should wear it on his third finger because that is the "wedding finger" or whether he may wear it on his little finger, has been often asked me lately. The answer is decidedly "yes" to the propriety of his wearing a wedding ring, but "no" from the American standpoint of best taste to his wearing it on his third finger, but the English and Americans — when they wear them at all — prefer the little finger.

Let me add by the way, that any ring may serve as the wedding ring of the bridegroom. I can't make the definite statement that this is permitted in every church of every denomination, but I know of at least a score of men whose seal rings are actually wedding rings — put on their fingers in double ring ceremonies.

Dining-Room Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: When eating in a restaurant, and having the misfortune of dropping a piece of silver from the table, or a napkin sliding to the floor, does one rescue the item himself or leave it?

Answer: "Misfortune" is much too strong a word for a sliding napkin — or even for a fork unless the latter had food on it which smeared someone's clothes. If a waiter or waitress is near you say, "I dropped my fork; will you get me another please?" Or if you have an extra one you use that and pay no attention. If it's your napkin, you probably reach down, take hold of its edge and draw it up to your lap.

A napkin has a way of sliding off and not lying completely flat upon the floor. Even so, it is proper to put your napkin back upon your lap, but you are not supposed to eat from a fork or a spoon or any other table implement that has fallen on the floor.

On the other hand, if there is no waiter within speaking distance to bring you a fresh one and you have no other, you pick it up yourself, and wipe it off on a piece of bread and continue eating. If it is a fresh one you'd wipe it on your napkin and eat with it.

Emily Post's booklet, "The Etiquette of Weddings," will answer all the questions about the ceremony and the reception that you have been asking yourself. Send for it, enclosing ten cents in coins and a three-cent stamp to cover postage and handling. Address Emily Post, care of Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y. Greene County's Girls to Be Given Chance for Queen

Selection for Area Apple Festival Event Slated

This Year to Go to Catskill

Carrying on a tradition established for years, eight Hudson Valley counties will stage a wartime Apple Blossom Festival this year to mark the beginning of the valley's food-for-war production season.

For the first time since its inception, the Apple Blossom Festival will be without the fanfare and panoply that have characterized previous celebrations. Nevertheless, one of the valley's loveliest girls will reign as Apple Blossom Queen and be accorded honors at a coronation ceremony in Kingston.

The queen will be chosen this year from among the schoolgirl beauties of Greene county. Seven high schools of the county have been asked to cooperate and their students have been requested to cast ballots for the girl to represent them at a final judging at Catskill, April 28.

The girl chosen will be crowned, crowned and crowned at a later ceremony in Kingston and will rule as queen of the valley until the Blossom Festival of 1943.

The coronation will be set for a time when, under ordinary weather conditions, the valley will be massed with apple, cherry, peach and pear blossoms—prelude to the blooming of thousands of acres of dogwood and laurel.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the festival is headed by C. C. DuMont, general chairman, with C. Zachary Rogers of Marlborough as honorary chairman. Other committee members are: E. J. Thomas, vice-chairman and chairman of the "queen" selection board; Pratt Boice, treasurer; Albert Kurdt, secretary; E. M. Huben, publicity director; Paul Zucca, coronation director; M. Reina, Henry Darrow and A. P. Modjeska.

County chairmen are: E. Stuart Hubbard, Poughkeepsie, Dutchess county; Wesley Ten Broeck, Hudson county; Columbia county; Walter Clark, Milton, Ulster county; Eugene Hacher, Rock Tavern, Orange county; Paul O. Fromer, Tannersville, Greene county; Murray Thompson, Valley Cottage, Rockland county; Mrs. Chester Osborn, Monticello, Sullivan county and Howard Carpenter, Seward, Schoharie county.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, April 15—The recent heavy snow has delayed the plowing and dicing of both private and public Victory Gardens somewhat, but given a few days of sun the soil should be in workable condition by the end of this week.

It is still not too late for those whose vegetable plots are not large enough for this season's extra crops to obtain additional space or to lay out a complete patch of their own in one of the other of the community gardens. To date these consist of:

About one acre offered by Miss Agnes Anderson on the Bearsville road; Miss Anderson would expect a share of the produce, in exchange for the use of the land, which is excellent.

One acre donated by Mrs. Lucy Brown on the Zena road.

One acre donated by Mrs. Martin Comeau on the Bearsville road.

One acre donated by Mills Case on the Ohayo Mountain road.

A large plot, most of which has already been spoken for, donated by Mrs. Margaret Kenyon on the Glasco Turnpike.

A half acre, part of which the donors themselves will work, but are glad to share with others, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Walter McTeigue on the West Hurley road.

About three fourths of an acre donated by Miss Alice Wardwell on the Glasco Turnpike.

It will be seen that these plots are well scattered around the community, thereby providing easy access to neighborhood groups.

Application for plots, information on purchases, seeds, fertilizers, etc., may be made at any time at the O. C. D. office.

The series of Red Cross nutrition classes begins Thursday, April 16, at 8 p. m. in the town hall. The ban on the sale of cream puffs and eclairs in Kingston went into effect today and remains in force until September 15, under the provision in the city health code adopted by the Board of Health in 1941.

Not only does the local provision ban the sale but also bans the manufacture of cream puffs and eclairs during the period stated.

Plans Progressing For Margaretville Area Dam Project

Reservoir to Be 156 Billion Capacity 'Lake' Extending Along River Branch

Plans for the 156 billion gallon East Delaware reservoir which when completed will stretch along the East Branch of the Delaware river between Margaretville and Downsville, continue to develop and when completed New York city will have added another to its chain of reservoirs designed to give the big city ample water.

Along this picturesque river valley where now are numerous splendid dairy and general farms will someday extend a long snake-like reservoir with a daily yield of 370 million gallons of water for New York city consumption.

The valley of the East Branch of the Delaware river between Margaretville and Downsville where the reservoir will be located is narrow and crooked with bordering mountains of rugged proportion and generally with steep and rocky slopes. Some of these mountains rise 1,000 to 1,300 feet above the valley floor.

The flood plain of the valley varies in width from a few hundred feet to a half mile wide. It is through this valley that the river winds its snake course. The waters of the river and its tributaries will be impounded by a dam located a mile and a half east and upstream from Downsville while the water will be impounded behind a rolled earth construction dam with a center concrete core-wall down to bed rock similar to the Merriam dam on the Rondout and the Neversink dam. The flow line will be placed at an elevation of 1,280 feet above sea level. The crest of the main dam will be approximately 200 feet above the bed of the river and will extend between the two opposite mountains for a length of 3,000 feet.

When filled to capacity the reservoir will have a depth of about 180 feet at the dam, will cover some 6,300 acres of land and will extend upstream 19 miles to the junction of the Cold Spring Hollow brook, or as locally termed, Huckleberry Brook, two miles west and downstream from Margaretville.

This long snake-like reservoir will have a shore line of about 55 miles and will penetrate up Coles Cove and Tremper Kill valleys three miles each and six other smaller valleys about a mile.

The impounded waters will flow to the Rondout reservoir through a 26½ mile tunnel.

The reservoir plus a marginal strip necessary for highways will amount to roughly 12,000 acres. It will be necessary to build 60 miles of substitute highways to replace present highways along both sides of the river and the various branch roads which will be inundated. Shavertown will be about mid-way on the reservoir. The reservoir will be located in the townships of Colchester, Andes and Middletown.

Engineering problems will be checked during construction through a system of triangulation stations beginning at Downsville and criss-crossing the narrow valley with a central checking station near Shavertown. There will be, under present plans, 47 of these triangulation stations between Downsville and beyond Dunraven.

Hoover Company Denies Priority Violations

Sam Bernstein & Co., Hoover dealer, has a communication from the company stating that the W.P.B. order directed against them for alleged priority violations will not interfere with the sale of Hoover cleaners, either already manufactured or to be built up to April 30, when production of all electric cleaners will cease.

The company will continue to produce war materials, on which facilities are already 84 per cent engaged and expects to attain practically 100 per cent operation on war products.

The suspension order is vigorously protested and in a statement it is declared that the company did "not at any time intentionally or unintentionally violate any priority restrictions laid down by any government authority."

Regarding the charge that in the period of June through October, 1941, the company accepted deliveries of 179,274 pounds of scrap aluminum for purpose of melting and processing the company states that such aluminum was in the form of used competitive and Hoover cleaners traded in by individual purchasers of new Hoover models. These trade-in transactions are said to have been for many years part of standard merchandising and "cannot be considered purchases of scrap aluminum."

New York, April 14 (Special)—A sentence of a year and a day was imposed in United States District Court here today by Judge Edward A. Conger on John A. Keller of New Paltz for rendering a false financial statement on February 3, 1940, to the Middletown Production Credit Association for the purpose of influencing the Federal Credit Administration, an intermediate credit bank, to approve his application for a loan.

Keller sought money to finance the production and harvest of a farm and orchard at New Paltz. He pleaded guilty to the charges on March 12. Assistant United States Attorney Jerome H. Doran prosecuted the case.

The defendant will be sent to a penitentiary to be designated by the United States attorney general.

190,775 Fans Watch First Games of 1942; Two 3-Hit Games Seize Spotlight

Ruffing, Muncie Pitch Masterpieces; Yanks Show Power; Mize Hits for Giants

(By The Associated Press)

Sports fans now have had their first taste of a tonic labeled "major league baseball, an antidote for war worries" and the dose given 190,775 persons in eight cities yesterday had an altogether agreeable flavor.

The opening games were crammed with enough excitement to satisfy any thrill-hunting baseball fan and they heralded more interesting encounters to come.

The world champion New York Yankees functioned like a well-oiled machine, but Boston, Cleveland and St. Louis also looked good in winning and the Brooklyn Dodgers keynoted another topsy-turvy National League campaign with as dizzy a ball game as New York fans have seen in a long time.

Ruffing Hurts Brilliantly
At Washington, before Vice President Wallace and 31,000 other fans, old Charley (Red) Ruffing embarked on his 18th American League season by hurling a magnificent three-hit 7-0 shutout against the Senators.

Although he had looked almost helpless in some of his training efforts, Ruffing gave as good a show as any in his career. Besides three singles he allowed only one walk and never let a man past first base. He accounted for two of New York's 10 bingles off young Sid Hudson and one of these slashes by the husky, 37-year-old right-hander knocked in two runs.

At New York 42,653 fans, the biggest turnout of the day, watched the Dodgers down the Giants, 7-5, in the Polo Grounds.

The National League champions looked invincible as they stabbed old Carl Hubbell for four runs in the first inning, belted him out of the box with Peevée Reese's two-run homer in the fourth and ran their margin to 7-0 in the first six stanzas.

But they didn't look so good in the seventh when Curt Davis gave five runs on two walks and four hits, including a tremendous homer by John Mize with two aboard, and their five errors for the game were best forgotten. In fact, they made fans forget some of them by rattling off three sparkling double plays.

As further evidence that anything can happen in the senior circuit, both the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds, chief rivals of the Dodgers, lost their debuts.

Cubs Nose Out Cards
The Chicago Cubs nosed out the Cards, 5-4, by bunting two runs in the first inning and three more in the sixth off Mort Cooper. Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Braves also earned the distinction of being the first pitcher to be hit by a home run.

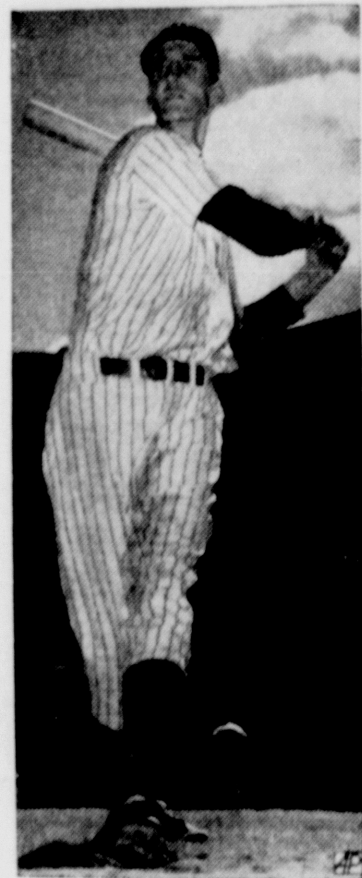

The Reds were set down, 4-2, by the Pittsburgh Pirates as big Max Butcher outpitched Bucky Walters, six hits to seven.

Johnny Cooney, the 41-year-old handyman of the Boston Braves, took over first base and provided a timely single and double to help beat the Phils, 2-1.

Ted Williams, the batting hero of last season with a .406 average, opened this campaign with a three-run homer on his first trip to the plate and also collected two singles as the Boston Red Sox overpowered the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-3.

The Cleveland Indians let loose a war whoop calculated to chill some of their rivals for the American League's first division as they trounced the Detroit Tigers, 5-2. While Jim Bagby and Joe Heving

First Sacker

Ed Levy, up from Kansas City, got the call at first base for the New York Yankees as the world champions opened the 1942 season against the Senators in Washington.

shared a seven-hit pitching performance, their teammates collected 13, including a home run, double and single by Rookie Les Fleming.

Browns Blank Chisox
Likewise, the St. Louis Browns made an early bid for recognition as a first division contender by chopping down the Chicago White Sox, 3-0, in the day's tightest hurling duel.

Bob Muncie held the White Sox to three hits, gave no walks, let no one get past first and faced only 28 men. In rebuttal, John Rigney rationed the Browns to five safeties and kept the score to 1-0 till the ninth.

Today and tomorrow the clubs will remain at their opening day stands, but Friday the teams which now are on the road will get their chance to bow before the home fans.

Yankees in Line For New Hurling Star From Coast

Baseball's Best Find Since Bob Feller Is Headed for Champs; Scout Is Confident

San Francisco, April 15 (AP)—Baseball's best pitching find since Bobby Feller's fast one started making batters blink a few years ago may be wrapped up in the giant frame of Carl De Rose, a 19-year-old boy fresh out of a California high school.

He is ticketed for the world champion New York Yankees by way of their farm system.

De Rose was signed to a Kansas City contract but Yankee Scout Joe Devine, who signed him, recommended he be sent to a Class C club, to Amsterdam (N. Y.) in the Canadian-American League.

He's strictly a green pea. Big, good natured De Rose may act like he has two left feet while fielding a ball but when he gets 6 feet 4 inches and 218 pounds of bulk behind a pitch, baseball men have visions of another Walter Johnson or Feller.

Scout Devine has spent 21 years peering the bushes for talent, first with Pittsburgh and more lately the Yankees. He turned up with such pitching gems as Ray Kremer, Larry French, Jim Tobin and Ernie Bonham.

In the person of young De Rose he thinks he has discovered a bonanza. "Every scout's dream has been to find another Johnson or, more lately another Feller," said Devine.

"I think I've reached my goal in this kid. He's as fast as anybody I've seen in a long, long time. He's green but he's fearless and thinks he can beat anyone, an ideal temperament."

"When I spotted him a couple of years ago he didn't know how to put on a uniform. He has unlimited possibilities and can become one of the great pitchers of the game. I predict we will be reading of his feats in a few years."

Sports Shorts

New York, April 15 (AP)—Basil James, veteran jockey injured Saturday at Jamaica and named to ride Alsab in the Chesapeake stakes this week-end, is hobbling about with a heavy cast on his left foot. Doctors still are not certain he will be in shape for the $15,000 race.

Berkeley, Calif., April 15 (AP)—A potential tennis champion arrived yesterday.

He was a baby boy born to the wife of Frankie Kovacs, professional net star.

Mrs. Kovacs, the former Virginia Wolfenden, was a national ranking player in her own right.

Denver, April 15 (AP)—The Colorado Woman's College is a heavy favorite to win the feminine division of the national inter-collegiate telegraphic skeet shoot Saturday.

Only two teams are entered, both from that school.

Leroy, Kas., April 15 (AP)—A. A. Schabinger, for many years director of athletics and basketball coach at Creighton University, has received a captain's commission in the Army Air Corps.

Schabinger's son, Joe, is a flight lieutenant in the same branch.

Phoenix, Ariz., April 15 (AP)—Lee Peterson, a star for the Decatur team in the Three-I League last year, pitched a perfect game for the Williams Field army team yesterday.

Peterson permitted no hits or runs as his soldier mates downed the Phoenix Retail Clerks Union, 1-0, in a twilight league game.

30 Boys Pass 'Y' Beginners' Test In Swimming Pool

During the week of April 6 one phase of the Y. M. C. A.'s drive to teach Kingston youngsters to swim was concluded. Forty-three boys signed up for the lessons and 30 completed the course and passed the beginners test.

The test, given at the end of the course, if passed by the swimmers, gave them the privilege of wearing a Y. M. C. A. and American Red Cross beginners' button. To prove his ability as a beginner the swimmer had to swim 40 feet or one length of the pool and jump in seven feet of water, recover and swim off.

The campaign just concluded was for the benefit of the public school boys. In the near future plans will be announced for free swimming lessons to be given to the parochial school boys and another for girls of Kingston.

Thirty-two boys took the beginners test Saturday morning. Of that number 30 passed and two failed. Eleven boys did not take the test.

Those who passed were Ray DuBois, Vincent Nardi, George Hughes, Robert Wetzel, Irving Dunham, Ken Hendricks, Emerson Hill, George Hooker, William Williams, Robert Blume, William Cozza, Robert Kelder, William Kilmer, John Woods, Vincent Rathgeber, John Maples.

Also Clarence Webster, Richard Craig, Henry Leininger, Charles North, Irving Kotrady, Samuel Forte, Henry Van Wageningen, Philip Zacheo, Ralph Kiff, Nick Reis, Alton Tompkins, Jack Moser, Pete Cooney and Ken Haggins.

Men's Clubs Have Show

The municipal auditorium was once again the scene of the annual entertainment sponsored by the Kingston Federation of Men's Clubs, which was attended by several hundred people. Shown above is the committee on arrangements, which was highly praised for the entertainment program. Left to right above, Harry Grey, chairman; Erwin Crow and Arthur K. Rice.

The annual entertainment and dance, sponsored by the Federation of Men's Clubs of Ulster county, was held last evening at the Municipal Auditorium and attracted a crowd of perhaps 1,200 people from the city and county. Paul Zucca as master of ceremonies presented Mayor Edelmuth who praised the men's organization and commended the membership on the work which was being carried out by the clubs.

Mayor Edelmuth said the clubs represented the true evidence of the brotherhood of man which is one of the pillars of democracy. He said that if this spirit of cooperation is carried out by the democracies of the world fighting this war, we cannot fail to win. In closing he pledged his support of any program which the federation proposed for the betterment of the city and county.

Following the brief message of welcome by Mayor Edelmuth the master of ceremonies, Paul Zucca, presented a program of several acts of entertainment which included specialty numbers by the Glenford Hillbillies in song and instrumental music; songs by the three Smith sisters of Kingston followed by more cowboy music from the Blue Montana Ramblers.

Mrs. Roosevelt Issues Statement On Cancer Control

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a statement supporting the current anti-cancer campaign now being conducted throughout the nation by the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, points out that the protection of one's own health in war time may be considered a patriotic duty. Her message, received here today by the local unit is as follows:

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

March 26, 1942.
"The reminder of the American Society for the Control of Cancer that April was set aside by Congress in 1938 as Cancer Control Month is a timely reminder that in our concern about the war we should not relax our efforts in other directions for the protection of the nation.

"Protecting the armed forces against disease has always been a vital factor in war. This is being done effectively by our medical service, which is second to none. The protection of civilian health, however, continues to be largely a matter of individual responsibility. In time of war responsibility may be considered a patriotic duty.

"On a previous occasion I have commented on the fact that many men and women are thinking of participation in the war effort exclusively in terms of military service. We all realize, I am sure, that everyone cannot be used in this way.

"The April educational and enlistment campaign of the Women's Field Army of the Cancer Society suggests a phase of national defense in which every one may participate. Cancer is the second greatest cause of death in the United States. It takes 158,000 men, women and children annually. The tragedy of this situation is that almost two-thirds of these deaths are unnecessary. Under the slogan Conquer Fear, Delay

Alma Burger, soloist, sang two numbers, "In My Garden" and "I'll See You Again." Then came Texas and more cowboy numbers with Kingston's own magician Fred Van Deusen entertaining with his magic and baffling tricks. A version of "Truth and Consequences" as interpreted locally was then put on with the actors being summoned from the audience. First prize was voted to Aaron Gray of Glenford, a past president of the federation, and he was awarded $5 in defense stamps for his endeavors in demonstrating the best technique in applying a most necessary garment to a very small baby. Others who were voted by the audience winners were awarded $3 and $2 in defense stamps.

Due to the length of the "consequences" the last act of the program was cut short because of a later engagement of the participants. This was Carolyn Penzato of New Paltz and "Tommy" who before coming to Kingston filled an engagement at Beacon and was compelled to leave early to fill another engagement at Poughkeepsie.

Following the entertainment program there was music for dancing. The committee in charge was Harry Gray, Arthur Rice and Erwin Crow.

and ignorance, the society will endeavor to inform everyone in the country about the symptoms of cancer, and emphasize the fact that cancer can be cured if treatment is begun early.

"It seems to me that everyone should participate in this effort by securing the pamphlet issued for this purpose, and familiarizing himself with the five symptoms. Individual knowledge of these facts, leading to the saving of 100,000 lives annually, would be an enormous contribution to the welfare of our nation."

'Chapel of the Air'

The first Christian Science program in the Mutual Broadcasting System's "Chapel of the Air" series will originate at Station WOR, New York, and will be heard over an extension hook-up, on Sunday morning, April 19, at 11:35 o'clock, Eastern War Time.

Eire is reported to be killing many cattle herds to make more land for wheat.

Firemen Honor Draftees

At the Binnewater Fire House Tuesday evening the firemen and friends held a farewell party for two of its members who left this morning for the Kerhonkson draft board for induction examination. The party was attended by about 75 people. Shown above, left, is Oliver Stokes, and right, Raymond Jackson, the two selectees.

Broad, Towering Elm Might Go at Main, Fair Streets

For a century or more a huge elm tree has stood in front of the historic First Reformed Church on Main street. The passing years have caused its branches to extend far and wide, while the butt of the tree has overflowed the curbing, and extends out into the street, somewhat obstructing traffic.

Lately fear has been expressed that should the ancient tree topple over it would crush the buildings on the opposite side of the street. That fear has been expressed to the Board of Public Works.

At the monthly meeting of the board Tuesday afternoon it was brought out that requests had been made to the board to have the tree taken down. It was said that the church board had also no objection to the tree being removed.

The problem from the board's standpoint is not so much as to whether the tree shall be taken down or not, but as to who shall pay for the operation. Under the provisions of the city charter, it was said, the city has no authority to take down trees. In fact the charter provides that it shall be done by the property owner.

However, the charter provides that when necessary the city can condemn a tree and notify a property owner to take the tree down.

After discussing the matter pro and con the board finally referred the entire problem to City Engineer James G. Norton and Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer to investigate the question and offer a solution at the next meeting of the board.

F.D.R. Predicts Victory, but Time Will Be Needed

Washington, April 15 (AP)—It may take two or three years, says President Roosevelt, but "we are going to come out the winner in the long run."

"And when it comes to cleaning up the mess at the end of this war, after the Axis is defeated," he told a group of Latin American diplomats yesterday, "we will have again an hemispheric council around here to see what we are going to do all over the world, because we will have a very great voice in preventing, in the future, an attack on our American civilization."

The President spoke informally to 20 diplomatic representatives of other American republics who called at the White House on the occasion of the 52nd anniversary of the Pan American Union.

Asserting he shuddered to think what would happen to any part of the hemisphere that came under German domination, he termed this the "survival war," and declared:

"We are going places. We will get somewhere. And we are going to have a couple of years, perhaps three years, before we can make sure that our type of civilization is going to survive. I am perfectly confident of it myself. We have all got to sacrifice. But we are going to come out the winner in the long run."

Sturm Suffers Injury

St. Louis, April 15 (AP)—Private Johnny Sturm, former New York Yankee first baseman, lost the tip of his right index finger, just below the nail, in an accident at Jefferson Barracks but he said today it would not interfere with his playing baseball. Sturm, a left-hander, expects in two or three weeks to resume duty as manager of the barracks reception center baseball team. The finger injury, requiring an amputation at the post hospital, occurred when he attempted to dislodge a loose wire caught in one of the wheels of a tractor he was driving.

Order Steel Covers

Edward L. McCaffery, consulting engineer of the board, at the meeting brought up the matter of the purchase of steel covers to be used at the new sewage plant on East Strand.

These covers will not be needed until next spring, but steel is now hard to obtain in private industry. The cost was $10,300 each.

The board after some discussion directed that an order for these steel covers be placed.

City Engineer James G. Norton brought up the question of the purchase of another pump that will be needed when the proposed new sewer system is constructed in the Roosevelt Park section of the city.

He said that he had two used pumps on hand, and was directed to purchase one of them after he had given both pumps a thorough test, at a cost of $300.

It was brought out that under the new priority ruling it would be a long time before the board would be able to purchase a new pump.

Park Concessions

The board awarded the concession for the summer at the Municipal Stadium to Thomas J. Murray of 37 Clinton avenue, who submitted the high bid for the concession. His bid was $125 down payment and 20 per cent of gross over $125.

Marie and John Wolff were granted the concession in Hutton Park. They were the only bidder. The bid was $16.

Mrs. Esther Basch of 173 Hasbrouck avenue was granted the Forsyth Park concession. Her bid was $85, while Mrs. Hattie Smith

Selectee and His Prize Bull

Charles S. Barnett of St. Remy and prize bull with which he won grand championship at the Ulster County Fair and took second place at the New York State Fair, Syracuse.

Among those who will leave for camp Thursday, April 16, with a contingent from the New Paltz draft board, is Charles S. Barnett of St. Remy, son of Samuel Barnett, North Front street jeweler.

Charley was active in 4-H Club work and took a number of prizes in the dairy section of their work. He graduated from Delhi School of Agriculture in 1935 and during his course there won first place at the New York State Fair in the judging contest, against 127 contestants from various schools and colleges.

He has won prizes on cattle at the State Fair a number of times. The animal shown above won second place at the State Fair after taking the grand championship at the Ulster County Fair. It was purchased as a "baby" from A. H. Chambers Maple Lane Farm, its grandmother at one time holding the world record for butter fat.

During the past six years Charles has been employed by the Babcock Dairy as herdsman and in the plant and has won for Babcock Farms a number of first and second prizes at the Ulster County Fair.

U. S. Might Bar National Weekly

Mail Privileges Might End for 'Social Justice'; Hearing Is Set

Washington, April 15 (AP)—Accused of violating the espionage act by making a "substantial contribution to a systematic and unscrupulous attack upon the war effort," the national weekly Social Justice today faced the possibility of being barred from the mails.

Postmaster General Frank C. Walker late yesterday ordered the Royal Oak, Mich., postmaster to withhold the publication from the mails until officials at Washington determine its mailability, a procedure which officials said barred the tabloid from the mails immediately, and set a hearing for April 29 on whether the paper's mailing privileges should be revoked.

The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, who helped found the weekly in 1936 but who said he no longer was its editor, owner or publisher, challenged Attorney General Francis Biddle to "summon me to Washington" to defend it.

Biddle, author of the charges against the weekly, declared in a letter to Walker that it had mirrored "the enemy propaganda war being waged against this country from abroad."

As early as December 25, 1938, Biddle said, there appeared a "striking similarity" between social justice themes and Axis propaganda. In its issue of that date, he declared, "whole portions of a speech, made on September 13, 1935 by Propaganda Minister Goebbels, were published in Social Justice as an original article with but a few words changed here and there and with no crediting or other identification of the source."

From the shrine of the Little Flower at Royal Ark, Father Coughlin, who campaigned against President Roosevelt in 1936, said he would be happy for an opportunity to answer the charges and added:

"The reason I make this statement is due to the persistent fact that the Jews and Communists and the New Dealers of America have been characterizing me as a seditionist, a pro-Nazi and a disgrace to the priesthood of the United States."

In revisiting last July any connection with Social Justice, Father Coughlin said the paper was owned by his parents, Thomas J. and Amelia Coughlin.

Walker advised the publisher of Social Justice—using only the title "publisher" with a name—that a hearing would be afforded on revocation of the second class privilege and that the matter would be disposed of "whether or not appearance is made."

Biddle estimated the Social Justice circulation at 200,000.

of 83 Chambers street was granted the Hasbrouck Park concession. Her bid was $25.

Bills were read and audited and the board then adjourned.

Walter L. Schussler, 29, of Port Ewen, is one of the latest recruits to enter training at the U. S. He was given the rating of storekeeper, third class, upon his enlistment here, and, following an intensive training period, will be assigned to active duty either on a ship of the U. S. fleet or at another naval shore station.
